THE Nashville American publishes an interview with a gentleman from Connectical who was stopping in that city. which he is quoted as saying that there is a man in his state who is organizing a scheme by which people can be transported from Newfoundland to the German coast in a few hours. It is proposed, according to the Connecticut man, to lay a pneumatic tube in the Atlantic ocean from the Newfoundland banks to Europe, and by exhausting the air in this tube passengers are projected through at a rate of speed heretofore unheard of. The details of the construction and locating of the tube and the construction of the cars are said to show remarkable ingenuity. Air is to be manufactured in the cars as they rush through the tube by the power produced by the outside

HAVING at last finished voting in Texas the result has been given out to an astonished country. The "Lone Star" state has beat the record, and done a perfectly paralyzing performance. The face of the returns shows that a rebuke has been thought necessary to the other bourbon states where the pluralities were care-lessly suffered to fail below the mark of former years. The bourbons of Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama, Georgia, and South Carolina will bow their heads with shame as they reflect that they too might have taken more time and doubled the size of their plurality. By their perfect and wellconsidered work the Texan bourbons have now established a valid claim to have their pleas for office acted upon in advance of all others when the grand award opens. The returns lack symmetry though, in that Cleveland's plurality was not made a nice even figure-150,000 instead of 131,855 would have looked handsomer upon paper. Still, it is too late to mend the matter new, and we will have to stand content with the latter figure.

SENATOR PLUMB is decidedly right in saying that it is becoming a question for congress to consider whether, owing to the rapid exhaustion of the public domain. some of the lands held by Indians should not be obtained for white settlers. It is plain that the supply of good, arable land is rapidly becoming limited to the Indian

But he was a republican and, having been raised where democrats and republicans alike freely expressed and maintained their opinions and still remained good friends and neighbors, could not see any good reason why he should not remain a republican. The habit of freedom of opinion was ingrained in the man and he stubbornly persisted in remaining a republican. In the late election he acted as chairman of the republican congressional committee for the district in which he had tried to make a home. The republican candidate was elected by an overwhelming majority, but was counted out by one

This man had suffered from social proscription at the hands of his white neighbors-nay, he had been, on more than one occasion, compelled to fight for his life because of his political opinions solely, but had still thought that after a while he would be able to establish friendly relations with those among whom he had cast his lot. However, after Cleveland's election such incontestible one occasion, compelled to fight for his Cleveland's election such incontestible sadly verified this statement, and the case of the man whose name we refrain from giving for his own sake is simply typical of the experience of others who have sought to make their homes in the sunny south and remain republicans. If the Herald will turn its powerful indignation in the direction of the field afforded by the experience of white republicans in the south it will find matter enough to fill its editorial columns for many days to come and not begin to exhaust the subject. In the meantime a free expression of its views in regard to the case referred to might prove interesting.

At 1239, on motion of Mr. Randall, of Penn-sylvania, the house went into committee of the whole (Mr. Cox, of New York, in the chair) on the bill making temporary pro-vision for the myal service.

No amendments were offered to the bill, and no discussion was had upon it, Mr. Randall merely making a brief statement to show that the total appropriation for the support of the navy for the current fiscal year was $15, 656,163, a reduction of $255,258 from the appro-priation of the previous year.

The committee rose, the bill was passed, and the house resumed the consideration of the interstate commerce bill.

This is not an isolated case. There are communities in the south where freedom of political opinion is tolerated, but they are few and far between. The policy of the government is now to reclaim the Indians from their nomadic habits and induce them to adopt the settled ways of civilization. That done the vast bodies of land assigned to them as that they could in large part maintain themselves by hunting will not be needed for their support, for a much smaller area devoted to agriculture and stock raising will be sufficient to afford them a comfortable living. Congress should take steps to acquire an equitable title to the parts of the reservations as are not necessary for the support of the red men, and then see to it that their title to the portion left to them is so firmly established that it will be respected by courts as thoroughly as the title to realty is respected and protected in the states.
